

NEITHER SIDE ADMITS DEFEAT

Telegraphers' Places On The Northern Pacific
And Great Northern Being Filled.

RUNNING TRAINS BY TELEPHONES

Two Wrecks Said To Have Occurred, Due To The Absence Of Train Dispatchers In The Mountain Divisions.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 3.—The strike leaders claim the strike is a success and the railroad claim the strike is doing little harm and that trains are running on time with the strike breakers and telephones. President Parham says he has the verification of two wrecks in the northwest but no one was hurt. The railroad officials refuse to discuss the matter.

All Went Out.
Every train between Fargo and Bismarck on the Northern Pacific walked out with the exception of an operator at Dawson. Freight trains are tied up and all passenger trains are reported running late.

Virtually the entire operating force of both roads walked out in response to the strike order. This includes the relay men in Helena, where the entire force of the relay office, where all business between St. Paul and points west of Helena is handled, walked out.

Dispatchers Out in Sympathy.

Dispatchers at Havre, on the Great Northern, walked out in sympathy with the telegraph operators. At Butte the strike resulted in the Burlington flyer being held twenty-five miles east of Butte. From the same city the north coast limited is being forced to run slowly on account of difficulty in obtaining clearance orders.

Operators on the Spokane and Idaho divisions of the Great Northern, except the dispatchers, are out. All operators on both roads in these divisions are claimed to have walked out with the exception of one man.

According to the claims of the strike committee in St. Paul 1,752 men have walked out. Of these $12 are on the Great Northern and 940 on the Northern Pacific. The men assert every operator on the Great Northern has walked out, and that all but two or three on the Northern Pacific.

Reviewing the first day of the telegraphers' strike upon the Northern Pacific system, General Manager Horn said the strike would cause surprises.

Telegraphers May Not Be Needed.

"In view of the fact," he said, "that the traffic is moving over the Northern Pacific system in a fairly satisfactory manner, in face of strike conditions, I predict that the present difficulties will demonstrate what can be done in the movement of heavy traffic over a single track railway without the aid of telegraphers. I believe this strike will furnish many surprises."

President Parham denied that statements issued by the road officials presented a true statement of the case.

"The statements are too low in their figures and too mean in their terms to be accepted," said Parham. "These roads have the lowest range of operating expenses of any roads in the United States. They are trying to run their roads too cheaply."

"The men only asked for a Sunday overtime schedule that would cost not to exceed $30,000 a year. Road officials say this would cost $100,000, but it would not. It is possible the strike would not have been ordered at all if they hadn't ordered a lockout."

AMERICANS HELD ON CHARGE OF ASSAULT

Sons of Millionaire Phipps of Pittsburg Shot at Supposed Poachers.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Inverness, Scotland, August 3.—Jay and Henry Carnegie Phipps, sons of Henry Phipps of Pittsburg, Pa., who recently shot out a man's eye, shooting on trial today for the accident. The affair has caused the greatest distress in the Phipps family. The accident happened several weeks ago but the court has been awaiting the result of the man's injuries before trying the young men. The shooting happened about midnight, which at this season in Scotland, brings only semi-darkness. The two Phipps observed six men engaged with a net and a boat on the estate rented by their father. Supposing them to be poachers, and having been informed that poaching had been carried on on other nights, they fired at the boats and the men decamped with the exception of one. When the young men came up they found this man in a helpless condition, having received several pellets in the eyes. The man proved to be John Allan Fraser, gillie to Lord Lovat, a highly respected man. He was taken to Beaufort castle, where he has been cared for by the best physicians. In the meantime the young Phippses have been held under bail of fifty-five pounds each.

HAS KAISER MADE FAUX PAS AT LAST?

Talk That He Has Made a Mistake Is Prevalent in Diplomatic Circles.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

London, August 3.—The report has reached the American Embassy here, and it emanates from the best of authority that Emperor William of Germany, encouraged by his recent interview with the czar, is now seeking some means by which he can have a voice in the peace negotiations. This might be easy as far as Russia is concerned, but Japan would never consent to any plan unless it would be to her advantage, which is regarded as most unlikely. It is understood that what William of Germany most fears as a result of the peace conference is an alliance between Russia and Japan. If he can do this without arousing in Russia suspicions of his self-interest, there is no one who hesitates to believe that the Kaiser will concentrate his energies toward this object.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, Aug. 3.—Word was received here that John Hyde, the recently resigned chief of the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Agriculture, arrived in London today, as was expected. Hyde left here several days ago for Europe, when it developed that his presence was greatly needed, likewise his testimony in the grand jury investigation of the cotton "leak." The new disclosures in the scandal which seem to be coming to light every day has disclosed a state of affairs positively startling and word from Oyster Bay says that President Roosevelt intends to have the entire scandal sifted to the bottom, sparing none.

PLAN A NEW STATE.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Knoxville, Tenn., August 3.—Voters of the counties of East Tennessee who want a new state made of the section are today voting on the question, as provided by an act of the last legislature. It is said that the reason why East Tennessee wants to be a separate state is because of the political oppression that section, especially in Knox county, by the ruling element of the dominant party in the middle and west Tennessee, the legislature having refused to recognize Knox county's representatives to amend the partisan laws and to give another judge to Knox county, although Shelby county, John Sover, the first Governor of Tennessee dreamed of a state that should be composed of Eastern Tennessee, southwestern Virginia, southeastern Kentucky and western North Carolina, being a mountainous country.

KAISER WANTS ONE BIG CONCLAVE SOON

Would Like to Take the Leading Part in European Politics Immediately.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Stockholm, August 3.—A fleet of German warships, consisting of seven battleships, ten cruisers and a torpedo boat squadron arrived off Stockholm today as a continuation of the friendly demonstration on the part of the Kaiser commended the middle of July when he sent a squadron to Gothenburg. The naval demonstration has been received and has revived the rumor that a German-Swedish alliance is seriously contemplated. No foreign fleet of such proportions ever came to Sweden before and the disposition of the squadron will amount to a blockade of the entire Swedish coast. The effect of the warships' presence is taken differently by the people. Some are inclined to regard it as friendly, while the newspapers say that if the Kaiser intends the demonstration as a token of friendship, he has overdone it and that he ought to have chosen a more amiable and less disquieting form of amity than girdling Sweden with a formidable cordon of his battleships. The Kaiser's contemplated trip to Denmark has increased the suspicion with which certain influential Swedes regard him.

MORE ADVICE GIVEN TO MAYOR DUNNE

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Chicago, Ill., August 3.—Mayor Edward Dunne, who has had his share of troubles over the question of municipal ownership of the street railways of Chicago, expects within a few weeks to have a solution of the problems which have perplexed him and his admirers. Today he received further advice from Scotland regarding the approaching trip of Mr. Robert Crawford, former town councilor of Glasgow, who will not only advise Mayor Dunne, but talk to the country at large on "municipal socialism and its practical workings in Glasgow." Mr. Crawford will come to the United States alone and at his own expense and will give his services to other cities that may need instructions on the subject of municipal ownership.

Mississippi And Louisiana Are Still Disputing About The Rights Of Quarantine--More Deaths Occur.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]

New Orleans, La., Aug. 3.—The yellow fever situation is today viewed with optimism. The doctors warn the people not to feel alarmed at the increase of deaths for a few new cases are reported and they say it is likely that under the most favorable circumstances there will be some new infections and probably fatalities but as long as they are kept below Canal street they need not fear a general epidemic.

Hold Up Train.

A whole train load of passengers on the Iron Mountain was held up in Concordia Parish and they kept the wires hot with protests at Monroe, La. The Columbus, Mississippi, Rifles guards the entrances and smaller towns are passing special ordinances. Alexandria, La., has completely done herself up in order to get provisions and send a train out thrice a week to be fumigated.

In Virginia.

Portsmouth, Va., Aug. 3.—On account of the yellow fever of other Southern cities the government has begun a war on mosquitos with oil at the naval training station here and Norfolk navy yards.

Trains Late.

St. Louis, Aug. 3.—The train from the south this morning arrived nine hours late with two hundred and fifty yellow fever refugees.

Cairo, Ill., Aug. 3.—That portion of Illinois lying south of the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern railroad, which extends from St. Louis to Vincennes, Ind., has been declared to be quarantined against all fever infected ports. At a conference between Dr. J. A. Egan and Dr. J. C. Sullivan of the Illinois state board of health and Acting Mayor W. H. Wood this course was determined upon.

A letter was prepared by Dr. Egan, addressed to the officers of the railroads entering this city, notifying them of this fact.

No passengers from New Orleans or other points where fever exists or develops later will be permitted to leave trains at points in the quarantined district. Health certificates issued by officials in the fever zone will not be accepted until ten days after persons left infected districts.

Inspectors Are Detailed.

Dr. Egan has just returned from Memphis, where he studied the methods employed to guard against a fever epidemic.

Dr. Egan has sent for four inspectors to board trains and steamboats. A tug will be secured and trains will be met at East Cairo and inspected before they cross the bridge. An inspector will also be sent to Thebes to inspect the trains crossing the bridge there.

The demand for health certificates has been great. Traveling men bound for southern points subject them to avoid delay occasioned by quarantine regulations. Some of the railroads refuse to sell tickets to anyone not provided with a health certificate.

NEWS OF THE STATE IN BRIEF.

Death Record Is Broken.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 3.—Eleven deaths of yellow fever occurred here Wednesday, the largest number in a day so far. The city board of health reported thirty-two new cases and four new foci. The number of new cases showed a decrease, but the increase in deaths exceeded expectation.

Interest in fever conditions has been diverted to the wartime preparations going on between the authorities of Louisiana and Mississippi in consequence of the presence of a number of armed Mississippi patrol boats invading Louisiana waters. The relations between Governors Blanchard and Vardaman assumed a critical stage when the captain of one of Vardaman's mosquito fleet threatened to shoot the brigadier at the Rigolets if he allowed a vessel from Louisiana waters to pass through the bridge.

Vardaman Takes Charge.

Governor Vardaman arrived at Gulfport Wednesday morning after a hurried trip from Jackson to assume charge of the patrol boats as commander in chief of the Mississippi Naval Militia. Governor Blanchard issued orders to Captain J. W. Bostick, in command of the Louisiana Naval Reserves, to proceed with sufficient force to Lake Borgne Canal for the protection of Louisiana fishermen, citizens and boatmen. The oyster commission has been ordered to turn over the oyster fleet to Captain Bostick, who has instruction to add, by charter or impressment, whatever boats he deems desirable.

The boats will be armed fully, and each filled with a complement of naval militia.

Armed Men Invade State.

Captain Bostick submitted a preliminary report by wire stating that armed military men crossed into the state on Aug. 1 and previously two Mississippi launches interfered with traffic in the Rigolets for seven days, capturing eighteen schooners, which were turned over to the United States revenue cutter Winona and taken to Ship Island.

Governor Blanchard wired the secretary of the treasury a vigorous protest against the interference of the revenue cutter Winona with Louisiana fishing boats lawfully riding in Louisiana or federal waters.

The governor requested prompt action to stop these practices, and asked for the release of the boats held by the Winona.

just previous to the speaker's pre-

strain of his work for the past few weeks had commenced to tell on him a few days ago and Father Vaughan was sick after his Tuesday evening lecture. He was at the grounds yesterday afternoon against the advice of his doctor and the breakdown came in about the middle of his lecture. Four future engage-results are not anticipated. Father McDermott of Baltimore was called on to complete the discourse and generously he filled the difficult place, thrust upon him, in a most able manner.

America, the Land.
Father Vaughan said in brief:
Many hundreds of years ago God picked out the Children of Israel for his people. He guided and the great Jehovah has found a new nation—
America—the land of possibilities.
Columbus was a providential man,
chosen by God, to discover, after

boat landing which has heretofore

HOW THE HEAVENS ARE TO NAKED EYES

Appearance During Month of August
Is One of Great Beauty.
Just Now.

The giant autumn constellations
now cover the whole of the sky. If the observer will go out into the country, so far from the city lights
that the background of the sky looks black and not gray, he will see the whole vault of the heavens covered with giant stars which appear packed
so closely together that they seem almost to touch one another. Almost exactly overhead, but a little to the north, will be found the large group Hercules, to the west of which there is the beautiful northern crown, while to the east lies the constellation Lyra, or the Harp, from which shines out the magnificent star Vega. These three beautiful groups of stars are almost directly overhead far more brilliant than
when they are seen near the ground,
when their light must pass through
hundreds of miles of wet and dusty
air before it reaches us.

Just east of Lyra will be seen the milky way, which now spans the entire heavens, passing almost overhead from the south to the north, and lying along this is the beautiful group Cygnus or the Swan, which is better known as the northern cross.
Between the milky way and the ground there is appearing for the first time this year the very large group known as Pegasus of the winged horse. This constellation extends from Aquarius in the southeast all the way to Andromeda in the north. Indeed it overlaps the latter constellation, some of the stars being common to both. Myth-ologically this snow white steed was the son of Neptune and Medusa, and sprang from the blood of the latter after her head had been severed by Perseus. The figure is of very great antiquity and indeed is said to have been placed in the heavens by the early Aryans. It is found on the coins of Greece, 500 B. C., and also on a very ancient gem from the Em-
phrates.

Cope's Message.
At seven thirty last evening the Chicago Lyceum Ladies' Quartette
rendered a concert. They were greeted with plaudits and the audience
evinced their approbation of each selection. The solos and readings of Mrs. Effie Palmer were decidedly successful and her rendition so full of expression, captivated her listeners. Herbert Leon Cope, with his lecture on "Wrinkles" furnished the body of last evening's entertainment. He is a humorist and impersonator but brought a message to his audience. He believed that everyone should always make himself
and others happy and wear the wrinkle of humor. The lecturer said in part: A person's appearance tells to the world what that one is. It tells
if he or she is never satisfied, if they are mean, if they are joyful or cross.
Childhood's religion is the most beautiful. It teaches one to look on the bright side of everything. A child of seven or less, who is not a convert of this belief, has an awful future before him for statistics show
that seventy per cent. of the criminals held in the prisons of the land
were started on their ill-directed career before they had reached the age
of eight.

Pleased Greatly.
The blunders, the oddities and peculiarities of people furnish the fun
of the world. When there is no thing in the laugh, these things people should enjoy but above all no
man's religion should be the target of mirth. Religion each man holds above himself and he has a right to believe as he wishes without having fun poked at him. The true sentiment of Mr. Cope's words cannot be expressed in ink so impressively as he brought it out with impersonations and readings. He presented not alone the humorous but also the pathetic phase of life.

Uncle Tom's Cabin.
The moving pictures presented by Alfred L. Flude each evening are exceptionally fine. The flash and unevenness, so noticeable in many films,
are not present in those used. Last

ment over conceived by human mind or executed by the hand of man. The spirit of liberty has been lacking in every former civilization, that of Egypt, Greece, Rome and Europe,
and each has succeeded in falling.
The American civilization contains the great attainments of all these
and has in it the immortalizing power of liberty. Asia and Africa have gravitated from high culture and education into ignorance. Europe has reached her pinnacle and America is
the land of the future.

Three Great Lessons.
Three times has America taught
the lesson of liberty. In the Revolution she instructed the world, in the Rebellion she taught her own people and in '98, Spain. It was first the attainment of liberty for self, then
the procuring of liberty for people within her own borders and the last time for one in no wise connected.
Here Father McDermott took up the discourse. He said American civilization is differentiated from all others. The spirit of liberty pre-vades it and these things which have caused the downfall of
other countries have been mastered.
The love of liberty predominates the souls of all Americans and in the civil war and in the Spanish-American strife Catholic and non-Catholic fought together under the same flag,
and the blood of both are mingled
in the graves of Cuba, Porto Rico and the Philippines.

NO FORESTS, NO FISH.

Preservation of the Former a Necessity for the Latter.

The preservation of our streams is necessary to the preservation of our fish, but many of the readers may not yet have considered how intimately the preservation of our forests is connected with the preservation of our streams and hence the very existence of many fish, especially brook trout, depend upon the preservation of the forests, writes
Dan Beard in Recreation.

To illustrate this relationship between forests and water, make a couple of troughs, line one with clay
to represent the country denuded
from trees, the opposite trough lined with soils of grass or moss to represent the forest-clad mountain side,
set them on an incline and connect
their upper ends with a rough reservoir. Pour a pail of water into this reservoir and there will be a wild rush of water down the clay lined trough, while the moss and grass-lined
one will drip for hours.

It only needs a little imagination
to convert this machine into a forest-clad mountain and one denuded of timber.

The cloudburst represented by the contents of the bucket suddenly poured into the top reservoir is only
a dangerous cloudburst on the bar-ren slope. By the use of this simple device you can explain to a child
the absolute necessity of preserving the forests upon the water sheds, if we would have continuous running water and not the certainty of flood and roughs which are caused by the watersheds being recklessly denuded
of timber.

Capt. McGiffin Optimistic.
I twice each season the Rockford and Janesville players meet on the golf links of the two cities to try one another's metal. Almost invariably each club wins on its home grounds,
but there was a notable exception to this rule five years ago when Janesville bested the Forest City players
both on the Janesville links and those at Rockford. In succeeding years
the victories have been evenly divided but the Forest City still retains its lead, having won six out of the series of ten contests. There are those who predict that Janesville is doomed to defeat this afternoon.
Colin C. MacLean is one who ventures this pessimistic forecast. Such lack of confidence, however, is not shared by H. S. McGiffin, president who announced last evening that were it not a very friendly contest

he would be willing to post a small

"Mike" Birmingham who is out of the game and home in Janesville on account of an injury is missed in the River, Mass., Daily Globe has this to say of him: "Fans who have studied the situation agree that the loss of 'Mike' Birmingham, whose injury still keeps him out of the game, has contributed more than anything else to the downfall of the locals. Not only for his hitting and fielding, which were exceptional, but also because he staided the team

down, was Birmingham a big factor in the many victories. His baseball brains have done wonders in this aggregation, and the absence of them
shows that the team is not getting its former speed. Since Birmingham retired, June 20, the team has played 25 games and won but 11."

GRAIN REPORTS FROM
NEW YORK CITY MART

Letter by J. S. Bache & Co. of New York on the Market Conditions.

By J. S. Bache & Co. New York. Better weather in the Northwest, contradictions of the market of the previous week, and liquidation, have, as we expected, caused weakness in wheat, with the result that prices at the close on Saturday were 4 or 5 cents a bushel lower for the week. The decline was not interrupted by frequent periods of strength, and fluctuations have been, and promise to be, sufficiently broad and irregular to promise many opportunities for profitable turns either way.

We are not among those who believe that we shall have a return of low-priced wheat. There have several times mentioned that some account must be taken of the situation with respect to gold in calculating the prices of all commodities, for the increasing volume of gold must inevitably cheapen the buying power, which, as gold is the standard of value, can only be accomplished by higher prices for commodities. This in itself is a strong argument against low-priced wheat, and another thing at the increased consuming power of this country, which has grown almost in proportion with the growth of foreign production, so that the time may not be far distant when we shall not regard a year of little or no export demand for the grain as abnormal.

At present we are by no means sure of a record-breaking crop. It seems highly improbable that much damage has occurred through rust in the Northwest as yet, but sentiment has been rendered somewhat nervous, and should there be a revival of the rust talk as a result of wet weather in the near future, we shall probably see a very nervous market at the date of the August crop report approaches. The decline of the last week has undoubtedly resulted in some rather heavy selling for short account, and covering could be expected on comparatively slight pretext. We would buy September wheat for a turn around at 83 1/2 cents in Chicago.

Good weather, favorable corn crop accounts, and the abundance of immediate supplies, have been reflected in the market for corn and led to a break of about 2 1/2 to 3 1/2 cents a bushel. So far accounts from the new crop have been extremely favorable, and there seems no doubt but that there is a good prospect at this time for an abundant yield. At the same time we are only entering the growing season, and during the growing season, unless the cash situation is much weaker than represented by the ruling prices—which sometimes happen early crop accounts are bad and an attempt is under way to discount future news—we are never very much impressed with the possibilities on the bear side. In the present instance we do not look to see much further decline for the immediate future, even if weather remains favorable. On the other hand, a turn for the worse in crop accounts—and some damage is certain sooner or later—might readily cause some advance, for the evening up of the July position has been attended by considerable short selling, and an advance through a little fresh buying would probably start covering. Oats have declined with wheat, and corn, July selling down to about 29 cents in Chicago. There seems to be no complaint as to the crop, but with corn holding around present prices oats are not particularly dear. We can see nothing attractive for operations either way for the time being.

Provisions. Provisions have ruled firmer and are about 5 to 20 points higher for the week, owing to slightly smaller hog receipts and a steady yard market. Packers appear favorably to the market, and some demand is coming in through commission houses. The indications are that the market will shortly show increasing activity, and purchases on breaks would seem advisable.

INSANE WILL BE TAKEN BACK TO RACINE ASYLUM

Forty Years Ago.

Janesville Daily Gazette, August 3, 1865.—A Lady in the Pulpit.—The wife of the Baptist clergyman at Hartford in this state when her husband is called away on a Sabbath, goes into the pulpit herself, reads a sermon and conducts the regular service like a man.

Capt. John H. Gee, the rebel officer who tortured and starved our prisoners at Salisbury, North Carolina, was recently shot dead near Charlotte, by a returned rebel soldier.

Hon. J. H. Beveridge, State Treasurer of Illinois paid in New York City last month about $115,000, being for interest on the state's indebtedness to July, 1863.

It now appears that we had nearly a million dollars in the field on the 10th of April. The government is mustering out eight hundred and fifty thousand men.

Awful Condition of South Carolinians.—A citizen of Chicago, who has recently returned from South Carolina, and a journey into the interior of the country in that state is heart-rending in the extreme. Even the wealthiest have but very little to eat, are clothed in rags, and have no money with which to purchase either food or clothing. He was besieged for help on all sides. How these people will manage to support themselves, or indeed to keep them from actual starvation, it is hard to conceive. They are most helpless and miserable beings our informant has seen anywhere. Our informant is a gentleman of unquestionable veracity, and has always been a republican in his political sentiments. He says these once proud spirited people are completely down—that they confess themselves hopelessly beaten and humiliated, and all they ask now is. What shall we do? What will become of us? And these questions they ask with tears and trembling lips.—Chicago Journal.

How The Rappahannock Got Off.—Captain Walker of the United States steamer Sacramento has explained in a dispatch to the Navy department the reason why he did not capture the late rebel cruiser Rappahannock. The latter was on passage from South Hampton to Liverpool. She kept so near the shore that she was in British waters when overtaken by the Sacramento. In order to have made a legal prize of the ship she must have been on the high seas. The captain of the Rappahannock (that is the name of the pirate) very cautiously hugged the shore. To have taken her would have made trouble, and Captain Walker therefore, was compelled to permit her to proceed. It is evident from the dispatch of Mr. Adams to Captain Walker that he was expected to take the ship, and he would doubtless have done so had the ex-privateer ventured out of the protection which shields any vessel which does not venture out of the maritime jurisdiction of a nation. As the Rappahannock will not be of much use, if she is obliged to hug the coast for all time, it is likely that there will be a chance to capture her hereafter, and on that occasion we hope that the Sacramento will be in the proper position at the proper time.

ST. MARY'S CANAL.

The value of canals is strikingly illustrated by the volume of the commerce which annually passes through the short ship canal around the falls in the St. Mary's River at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich. The fiftieth anniversary of the opening of the canal at this point is being privately celebrated at Sault Ste. Marie this week. As has been stated, it has been necessary twice to enlarge the capacity of the canal built half a century ago at an expense of about $1,000,000, in order to accommodate the commerce.

The average person has little conception of the immensity of the commerce of the Great Lakes. The figures given in our article showing the amount which goes through this canal will surprise the Easterner. Last year the number of vessels which passed Sault Ste. Marie was greater than that which entered the harbor of New York. The freight on these vessels equalled in tonnage that recorded at the New York custom house as entering and clearing from this port last year. As many as ninety-nine vessels, laden with 237,399 tons of freight, have been raised or lowered through the Poe and Weltzel locks in the course of twenty-four hours. The construction of this canal opened up rich sources of wealth. As a result iron and copper mines in the neighborhood of the shores of Lake Superior were rapidly developed and the cost of transporting wheat to the Atlantic seaboard from the prolific fields of the Middle West is kept at a low figure. It is a part of the water system of which the Erie canal is a link. The enlargement of the Erie canal will enable the port of New York to reap a greater benefit than ever before from this vast lake trade.

SOUND SENSE IN NORWAY.

Current indications are that Norway will continue to exercise the excellent discretion which has thus far characterized her action in seeking to dissolve the monarchical union with Sweden. She has been temperate, courteous and patient, though entirely resolute, and has thus commanded the respect even of those who cannot approve her aim.

Norway would doubtless be much gratified to receive formal recognition in her new status at the hands of other powers, but she has not been eager in seeking it, and there is now the judicious intimation that she may defer any application for it until she has arranged her differences with Sweden and has secured the recognition of that kingdom. Such a course as has been hitherto suggested, would be commendable and would obviate the possibility of embarrassment or unpleasantness between any other powers and Sweden. It is also announced that the Norwegian government will act upon the suggestion of the Swedish Riksdag committee in calling for a popular vote upon the question of separation. Such a course would seem to be eminently proper and desirable. So momentous an act as the dissolution of the union should certainly have the completest possible authority, and in a democratic country like Norway that authority is the voice of the people. There has doubtless been the less hesitation in calling for a plebiscite, since there is so little question as to what its result will be.

The expectation is therefore increasingly strengthened that Scandinavian reorganization will be peacefully effected and that its results will be mutually beneficial to the two kingdoms.

There seems to be little doubt that the necessity for a boom in Janesville is absolute. When a city does not grow more than six hundred in population in five years it is time to take a bump and get to work. The Janesville Advancement Association wants your help and every citizen interested in the city should aid the good cause.

The new state automobile law says that all automobiles shall be tagged by August 1st. August 1st is past and still the Janesville auto owners are minus the tags. The fault lies in Madison. No tags have been sent out. Here is a question for the attorney general to solve. Who is responsible?

New let the sheriff of Rock county get busy and find out who tried to blow up the Indian Ford dam. There would be a task worthy of his mettle. Shrouded in mystery he can work to his hearts' content on the dark deed attempted in the new of the moon.

The same trade continues to be heard all over the country against the men who have become rich. Usually it is some crank who seeks to curry popular favor with the masses that does the talking.

Those Russian and Japanese peace envoys will hold their conference amid cannon and powder at the government arsenal. They have come to settle a war in the midst of war-like material.

Rock river is fast becoming a summer resort of no mean proportions. Some day when Janesville has that boom the placid Rock will be popular the world over.

Secretary Root ordered that the crepe, the mourning for the late Secretary Hay, remain on his desk for thirty days. It was a touching tribute of one great man to another.

Said the Governor of Louisiana to the Governor of Mississippi: "Stop," but the Mississippi Governor continued, and then—

Evidently Janesville appreciates a Chautauqua. The crowds that have been attending the lectures thus far promise well for another year.

Milwaukee has a grand jury that is mighty diligent these days. More mysterious than a woman's pocket.

Evidently, there are criminals in Rock county that have not been caught. Is that possible?

The Indian Ford dam is still there. It may become as famous as the Thorapple dam yet.

Oil is running in the streets of New Orleans and despite this precaution the Yellow fever rages.

Secretary Wilson is not too old to teach some of his assistants the lesson of honesty.

What if Louisiana and Mississippi should come to blows over this yellow fever scare?

PRESS COMMENT.

Madison Journal: There was a suspicious number of La Follette men at the Bryan banquet. Any port in time of storm.

Chicago Tribune: Mr. Depew can see no reason why he should resign that directorship. Mr. Depew needs treatment for his eyesight.

Oshkosh Northwestern: Senator Depew is beginning to understand by this time that the people of this country do not have much use for peaches after they get specky.

El Paso Herald: Governor La Follette thinks it wrong that "this country should be governed by six men," but offers no indication as to whether he proposes to increase the number to seven or decrease it to one.

Milwaukee Sentinel: Speaking of clean sweeps, the Madison Journal might ask the Milwaukee organ of the state administration if it would be in favor of an investigation into statehouse graft by a Dane county grand jury.

Fond du Lac Bulletin: Keep the boys and girls off the streets. It is the streets, after dark, that give a boy the education that makes him either a criminal or a loafer. It is on the street that the girl's feet first take hold on the ladder that leads to perdition.

Chicago Record-Herald: A veteran of the civil war, after drawing a pension for many years, has surrendered it, explaining that he has become a Christian Scientist and is, therefore, in no further need of help. Even Mark Twain will find it hard, after this, to go on claiming that Christian Science is not admirable, in some ways at least.

Green Bay Gazette: The Iroquois club of Chicago has undertaken a movement which will please the majority of the people. It proposes to call a big convention for the purpose of securing an official examination of every life insurance company doing business in the United States. The exposure in connection with the Equitable affairs has raised a question as to the management of other companies which of necessity has resulted in a weakening of everyone of the companies no matter how ably managed.

La Crosse Leader-Press: Governor Douglas of Massachusetts has given his reason for refusing a renomination. He does not fear defeat at the polls. Indeed it is quite the reverse of that. He expects he would be elected by such a large majority that he might be nominated for president and elected in 1908. He cannot bear the thought of going to the white house for four or eight years and therefore will retire from the governorship at the end of his terms and go back to private life and his shoe business.

San Francisco Chronicle: Walter Hoff Seely, the insurance man, tells this: "I was taking lunch about a year ago in the Pennsylvania station at Jersey City and was seated on a stool at the lunch counter, when the congressional limited cable in, and among other passengers, was Secretary Hay. Rushing into the lunch counter he seated himself next to me and ordered a sandwich and a cup of coffee. On the other side of the secretary was a typical American, who had not the slightest idea that his neighbor on the left was the American premier. Mr. Hay's face was a study of amusement when he was suddenly jabbed in the ribs by the elbow of this man, who at the same time addressed the secretary after this fashion: "Say sport, ferry over the confectionery, will ye?" The interesting part of it was that John Hay passed the sugar."

Duluth Herald: The trouble is, of course, that a millionaire can do certain things, and it will be called "cute," while a poor man who tries it is likely to be called a "looter." A millionaire can wear shocking clothes, too, and nothing will be thought of it except that perhaps he is eccentric. But a poor man cannot afford the luxury of old clothes. If a rich man objects to being robbed, and insists upon paying out only what is right, people admire his independence and self-assessiveness. If a poor man does the same thing, people say he is stingy. When you come right down to it, the rich man really has, after all, some advantages over the poor man.

Appleton Post: Governor La Follette's declaration—it he uttered it—was well calculated to incite some weak-minded persons with a similar grievance—another Gulltan, for example—to take the life of the railway official which he is said to have said he "would like to have a hand in hanging"—i.e., in lynching. It is to be hoped that the governor's organ will be able to show that he never expressed such a wish, but to do so it will have to furnish some other evidence than that it was printed in the "rogues' organ." The frenzied declaration credited to Governor La Follette has evoked no reply from President Fish. When a reporter Thursday offered to take and publish any reply he might care to make, Mr. Fish's secretary said: "Mr. Fish has decided to say nothing about the incident." This was the dignified thing to do.

Arthur Colton in Atlantic Monthly: In La Bruyere's Characters of Theophrastus, there is a sketch of the country gentleman as he appeared to the Athenian civilian of the fourth century B. C. Your countryman, says Theophrastus, talks in a loud, unrestrained voice, wears heavy shoes, eats not daintily, but vigorously—he cares not what, is eccentrically familiar with his servants, and likes to contemplate oxen—surely a dull occupation. He will carelessly interrupt his dinner to go to feed his cattle or to chat with any one who knocks at his door—surely, to a civilian's mind, a great disrespect to the function of dining that gastronomic ceremony, the climax of the day and cynosure of its ordered propitities. Again, continues Theophrastus, when your countryman comes to town, he is always asking prices and testing the money paid him to see if it is honest weight; he buys a piece of meat, and carries it in his hand about the streets, to the embarrassment of his friends; he slings out loud in the public bath; he lifts his robe most indecently high, and remarks, apropos of nothing, that it is time for a new moon and that he intends to get shaved.

Railway Rate Control. Railway World: President Roosevelt will call an extra session of Congress, to convene on November 11. While the cause impelling this announcement is stated as being the need for additional legislation regarding the Panama canal, the Administration is known to desire new laws affecting the railroads engaged in interstate commerce, and it has also been suggested that important recommendations concerning the tariff will find a place in the President's message at the beginning of the session. A striking change in the Administration's attitude towards the problem of railroad regulation is indicated in the semi-official newspaper dispatches announcing that an extra session will be held. Whereas at the beginning of his present term President Roosevelt called vehemently for Federal control of railway rates, his sentiments in this respect seem to have modified of late by a greater regard for the vast interests which would be disturbed by such drastic action; and it is now declared with confidence that rates as a general topic will not be brought at all to the attention of Congress at the November session, but instead the President will emphasize the need of immediately remedying whatever remains of the evil of rebates and discriminations. "The extra session," it is affirmed, "will be requested to pass anti-rebate legislation, stringent enough to meet the conditions brought to light in the investigation conducted before the Interstate Commerce Commission last spring." In this alleged change of front, the Administration accurately reflects current public opinion. Save in a few isolated local instances there is little or no agitation for lower freight rates. Instead, public attention has been held by the Government's legal proceedings in the Atchafalaya Beef Trust, and Harvester Company suits, all involving individual cases of discrimination or secret agreements, and not concerning the justice or injustice of published rate schedules. One reason for the failure to work up a public demand for wholesale reductions in rates is the conviction that freight charges enter very little into the prices of commodities in ordinary consumption.

"The Holy City." Among the many brilliant scenes that the production of "The Holy City" presents, none is more sensationally superb than that in which Salome, the beautiful daughter of Herodias, dances before King Herod and his court. In diaphanous drapery, kaleidoscopic as a butterfly's wings in rainbow rays, its folds rising and falling about and around her nimble feet like clouds caressed by summer breezes, bending and swaying in harmonious motion to the enticing music heard, the royal dancer floats like a bubble on the palace terrace, bewitching the intoxicated king, who, after first offering half his kingdom, finally yields to intrigue and grants the head of John the Baptist, as a reward for sensuous delight. Exquisite as are the surroundings of this situation, its dramatic intensity is never lost. The conspiracy and its fatal ending—hidden for a moment by the alluring beauty of the scene—burst upon the senses in tragic acting that is seldom witnessed on any stage. "The Holy City" is a great drama, and will be presented for the second time in this city at the Myers Grand Opera House Monday night, Aug. 7.

HO-NO-NE-GAH PARK

A Historical Spot, Picturesque and Attractive.

A representative of the Gazette visited Ho-no-ne-gah Park last Saturday afternoon. He took an electric car from Janesville and the ride along the Rock river one long to be remembered,
and it compares favorably with some of the rides along the famous Wabash river. In about an hour's time at a cost of three-fifty cents he found himself in one of the most ideal and beautiful parks in this section of the country. Some one has said that the name of this park is a peculiar one
but the present owner and proprietor had nothing to do with that. And it may be said that under no circumstances would he change the name,
for it is historical in character and has been for nearly 100 years. It was named after a beautiful Indian maiden, the daughter of a chief, who became the wife of a white man, a fur trader, by the name of Stephen Mack who at one time owned this park and 1,000 acres surrounding it.
He was associated in trade with the famous John Kenzie, one of the first settlers of Chicago. Stephen Mack was a man of culture and refinement
and it is said was a graduate of Dartmouth college. But this park is also historic in other respects. On June 30, 1832, it was visited by Col.
Zachariah Taylor, Abraham Lincoln,
afterwards president of the United States; Jefferson Davis, later president of the Confederate states, and other distinguished men in the interest of the United States government.

This park has been in favor with those living in Janesville and surrounding towns for fifty years. In the past it has been visited by persons from almost every state and territory of the Union as well as by many residing in foreign lands.
Green grass, stately trees and plenty of them, the seductive river boats
and boating and hundreds of happy
men, women and children, some engaged in games, others reclining in hammocks chatting or reading—the scene was pleasing and fascinating.
Surely this is an ideal spot to spend an outing for a day, or a summer vacation. Mr. Coss, the owner, has not forgotten or neglected anything
that may add to the pleasure or comfort of his guests. Fully 150 people were camping there in tents and small cottages and many return again
from year to year, so the writer is informed. Fine bathing facilities, five wells of pure water, bowling,
swings, games, plenty of seats, refreshments, a dancing pavilion and no mosquitoes are among its attractions. Thousands visit this park
every year, sometimes 6,000 to 7,000
in a single day. It is well managed and no one can have any reason to find any fault. In fact it is managed in an ideal manner. It is a moral place, too, and no disorderly characters are ever tolerated. Mr. A. F.
Coss, the owner, is on the grounds
every Sunday and on other holidays,
also evenings, but he has representatives there at all times. He can be reached at Beloit by the long distance telephone at any time and he is a fine man to do business with.

TALKS OF IRRIGATION PLAN

Makes the Arid Country Fertile
for All Sorts of Plant Growth.

(By G. F. E.)
Denver, Colo., July 31.—With its cleanliness, freshness and newness,
Denver has been appropriately called
"The Queen City of the West." Probably the few easterners who visit this city expect to find such a metropoli-
s. It is well supplied with large and beautiful hotels and department stores and has an unusually efficient
street railway system of one hundred and seventy-five miles of tracks.
Here one does not see or come in contact with anything in particular
that suggests of the "wild and woolly
west."

Leadville Typical Mining Town
Pueblo is a city of the same nature
as Denver considering the size, but
at Leadville, which has an altitude of 10,000 feet, one sees the typical mining town. Here the miners live in one story frame houses and a handsome residence is almost an unknown quantity. A person from a lower altitude at once feels the difference in the air and depression is generally the result of a few days'
stay in this high city. Denver is about one mile above the sea level
and the air is very invigorating and clear, and clear weather is general.

Dry Atmosphere
Nothing can be raised in Colorado
without irrigation. Though Denver has beautiful parks, fine lawns and handsome drives it is all due to sprinkling. In the city park, which is the main park of the city, wild animals are kept, such as are seen in Lincoln park of Chicago, but their grounds are thoroughly irrigated
or else the grounds would contain nothing but dry dust.

Paradise for Consumptives
On a trolley car ride or otherwise
about the city are seen here and there huts and porches where tuberculosis patients sleep in the fresh air and hardly without fail, it brings here before the dreaded disease has gotten too great holdway, they soon
are well and healthy. One meets many people here who have grown
feeble, their chances of recovery

being very much a matter of doubt.
The mountains
Thousands of tourists enter and leave Denver every day. Excursion dates are in effect on the different
scenic routes in the mountains.
Among the one day popular trips are
"The Moffat Road," "The Georgetown Loop," and "The Switzerland Trail."
"The Moffat Road" is the new short line being built from Denver to Salt Lake City, the road being now completed to Arrowhead. This road crosses the backbone of the Rocky Mountains and is being built at a great cost, the first forty miles alone containing thirty-three tunnels. On the Denver & Rio Grande railroad between Pueblo and Leadville one passes through the far-known "Royal Gorge" in the "Grand Canon of the Arkansas." The traffic on this wonderful scenic road is very great at this time of the year. The work of putting this road through the canon
is almost as wonderful as the mighty forces which created the high and awe-inspiring rock walls and formations.

Through the Mountains
For the most part all the railroads
throughout the mountains are narrow gaged and equipped with locomotives built especially for heavy hauling. These roads twist and climb through the mountains in many queer ways. Such a thing as the engine and last car of a train of seven coaches being parallel with each other
is not an uncommon sight.

Janesville Chautauqua audiences tomorrow. The concert company will come to take the place of the Chicago
Lyceum Ladies' Quartette, rendering
three musical programs each day
remainder of the Assembly. Mr.
Arthur Middleton will be the soloist
of the organization. This company furnished one of the numbers on the

Flora Made the Sun.
Dr. Grant this morning gave his "class" the theory of the flora making the sun. Before the birth and growth of all plant life, flowers,
shrubs and trees, an opaque cloud of gases surrounded the globe. These gases the flora gathered during growth and imprisoned, clearing the air and giving to the world the sight
of the sun, the moon and the stars.
These gases which at one time hid
the great lights are liberated in the burning of flora, either in the growing or crystallized state, and consequently called smoke. Dr. Grant also said the sun, moon, and stars are not fountains of light but simply vehicles. The Bible says "there was light" and that God appointed the sun, moon and stars to give the world

Bowser Is A Hustler

He Gets the House Cleaning Done In Two Hours While His Wife Is Away.

PARLOR IS HIS UNDOING

Regains Consciousness, Only to Find Doctor, Wife, Cat and Domestic at His Side.

[Copyright, 1935, by R. B. McClure.]
"I SUPPOSE you won't be home before the regular hour?" questioned Mrs. Bowser at breakfast the other morning.
 "And what if I'm not?" he asked.
 "I was going to assist the church society at a children's festival, and I may not be home until nearly 6. I can give the girl orders about dinner, you know."
 "I don't see why you shouldn't go," he said after thinking it over. "I heard you say the other day that you'd be busy house cleaning next week."
 "Yes. I can't put it off any longer. I'm two or three weeks behind all the other women around here as it is."
 "Will it take a whole week?"
 "It will take four days anyhow. I wish there was some place where you could go and board for that time."
 "Perhaps I may hunt a place."
 "Well, I'll go along to the church this afternoon, and I'll try to be home as soon as you are."
 Nothing more was said on the subject, and when the mail was finished

MR. BOWSER SMELLED CAMPHOR AND OPENED HIS EYES.

Mr. Bowser took his departure. At noon Mrs. Bowser dressed, and at 1 o'clock she started for the church, seven blocks away. Mr. Bowser, unknown to her, was standing on a corner half a block away, and she had no sooner left the house than he entered it. The cook heard him as he opened the door and came up from the kitchen to see what was wrong.
 "It's all right, Jane," said Mr. Bowser. "Business was a little sick at the office, and so I came home to clean house this afternoon and save Mrs. Bowser the trouble. I may want a little of your help."
 "But I'm busy with the ironing, sir."
 "Oh, well. I can manage it alone. When we lived in the west they used to call me the lightning house cleaner, and I think I can still hold up my reputation. You go down and attend to your work, and I'll rush things through alone."
 "Mrs. Bowser was saying that it would take four days, sir."
 "That's all she or any other woman knows about it. If I can't clean this house from top to bottom in two hours, then I'll never do any talking again."
 "It's not me, business, sir, but I don't think the missus will like it," still persisted the girl.
 "Nonsense! It will be all over with before she gets home. Get me a broom and a feather duster and a dust rag while I change my clothes."
 "If there is to be explosions around here?"
 "Get on with you! What is there to explode? You may hear a bit of a racket up here, but it will be only one dragging the stepladder around."
 Ten minutes later Mr. Bowser was at work. So far as his experience had gone, taking up carpets was the principal thing about house cleaning. He began in the family bedroom. The dresser and chairs were rushed into the storeroom, the pictures whirled off their hooks, and the bedstead came down with a crash when it came. While the pieces were being picked up the cook made her appearance and asked: "Is it the roof that is falling in, sir?"
 "Certainly not. It was only the bedstead fell down. You go right back to your ironing and don't be alarmed."
 "But if you should break your leg you'll call down to me through the tube, and you'll also tell the missus that I didn't encourage you?"
 "Of course—of course. See me take this carpet up."
 He got his fingers under the carpet at one end of the room and gave a heave, and in about a minute the covering was bunched up and ready to throw out of a back window.
 "Mrs. Bowser would have spent a whole day prying the tacks out," he explained, with a bland smile, "while I have the carpet up before you could say Jack Robinson. Get me that broom and I'll sweep the floor. I gave myself just eleven minutes to do the job, and I did it in ten."

 The girl went back to her iron, and Mr. Bowser gave the backs of the pictures a rub or two, swept up the floor, set up the bedstead anew and in thirty minutes from the beginning was looking around saying to himself:
 "There—I've got this room all done. It'll be cooler and healthier with the carpet up, and so I won't mind that. Four days to clean house! I wonder what Mrs. Bowser could have been thinking of!"
 There were three bedrooms upstairs, and an hour and a half finished them. In taking down the curtains from the windows of the last room Mr. Bowser and the stepladder went over in company, and he was sitting up and rubbing the back of his head and seeing stars when the cook came running up to ask:
 "Will yez give me one minute's warning before I'm to be scattered to all eternity?"
 "Nobody's going to eternity," he replied as he tried to smile.
 "Then what was that crash, like a thousand oxen falling off a haystack? How many times, may I ask, can yez fall like that and not bring the house down with yez?"
 "Didn't I tell you not to mind a few crashes?" hotly replied Mr. Bowser. "I'm running this thing, and if you get hurt I'm good to pay all damages. Get down to your work."
 Cooky reluctantly descended the stairs, and five minutes later the lightning house cleaner descended to the parlor. There was a grin of anticipation on his face as he looked around him. Here was real house cleaning and no make believe. All the damage he had done upstairs was to break a pane of glass, knock the corner off a picture frame and lose two casters from the dresser, but here!

He began on the front parlor. Down came the curtains and portieres, the chairs and sofa went skittering, the pictures came off the walls with a whew, and before his back could begin to ache all the rugs were out of the back window. It was truly a lightning transformation scene. He had called for a feather duster and a dust rag, and after devoting five minutes to rest he mounted the stepladder and began to dust. He wanted to leave nothing for Mrs. Bowser's critical eye to find fault with. He had fanned along the ceiling a few feet with the duster when he overbalanced himself as he reached. He knew he was going, but he was helpless, except to yell. He uttered one shriek—a shriek that lifted cooky below him a foot high as she ironed away—and then there came the sound of a thunderous crash.
 "Tell me, is it slaughtered ye are?" demanded Jane from the foot of the stairs.
 No answer.
 "Is the missus to come home and find yez dead and buried?"
 Not a leaf stirred.

Mrs. Bowser had been at the church for about two hours when a lady living in the neighborhood of her house arrived to say:
 "So you've got Mr. Bowser at the house cleaning, have you?"
 "Bless you, no!"
 "But just as I left my house he was flinging rugs and things out of the window. Perhaps he's moving."
 Mrs. Bowser started for home at once with a great fear in her heart, and she was still half a block away when she saw the cook at the gate.
 "It's lyn! a crushed strawberry be is, mum!" was Jane's greeting. "Don't lay it to me, for I did my best to make him behave himself."
 "How did it happen?"
 "He comes home as soon as you leaves and starts in to play thunder and lightning with the house cleaning. There was one crash that only broke his back and style ribs, but when the next one came he didn't have time to say goodbye to you."
 Mr. Bowser smelled camphor and opened his eyes. An hour had passed. Mrs. Bowser, the cook, the cat and the family doctor were gathered around him.
 "He lives!" said the cook, as she saw his eyes open.
 "He is coming to!" whispered Mrs. Bowser.
 "Of course," added the doctor. "The only way to kill a jackass is to let the whole range of Catskill mountains fall on him at once."
 Then Mr. Bowser closed his eyes again and seemed to sleep, but down in his heart he knew that he would demand and secure a terrible revenge before morning dawned again.

Some Breezy Kicker Items

What Has Been Going on In the Neighborhood of Giveadam Gulch.

IT is generally believed in Grass Valley that the city clerk of that town, who has been missing for three weeks, has been devoured by a bear, as he was last seen in the company of one.

We learn that a man from Indiana is about to start a paper at Pine Hill, where six different editors have been shot or run out within two years. We congratulate him on being either a fool or a brave man.

The party who came along the street at midnight the other night and threw a rock through our bedroom window

HE LIMPED OFF WITHOUT LEAVING HIS CARD.

In the postoffice must have been a stranger in town. We were out of bed and had put a bullet into one of his legs before he had got his mouth puckered up to laugh. He limped off without leaving his card.

We haven't said anything lately regarding our ambition to be the next president of the United States, but we are keeping up a lot of thinking all the time and shall be in evidence when the time comes. Nothing is too tall for us.

We have been postmaster of the town for almost three years and have been working hard all that time, and yet it was only the other day that we got the windows of the old building clean enough to see through and found a clean spot on the floor. Uncle Sam is industrious, but not proud.

Mr. George H. Sheaver, the popular gunsmith of Rose Valley, denies that his wife has eloped, as stated in our issue last week. All right, George. If you succeeded in heading her off, that is your good luck, and we congratulate you. Our informant probably took the will for the deed.

Old Jim Hewson, who was caught in a snowslide near Dog Creek last winter and held fast for four days, has invented and is now making use of fifty-six new cuss words, none of which are less than four inches long. It takes a calamity to make some men do their best.

A keg of printer's ink which was on its way to us from Chicago was stolen from the freight house at Lone Jack the other day by half breed Indians and eaten up for molasses. There were five persons in the plot, and all of them have gone up into the hills to take a vacation and rest up after their arduous labors.

As mayor and postmaster of the town we must now and then take a blind in order to maintain our dignity, but as plain Jim Hellso we own a mule which can beat anything in the west on a half mile track, and we'll bet on it.

Fifty bushels of onions came into town yesterday along with fourteen barrels of whisky, and for the next two weeks our sanctum will be kept locked against the general public. Any one breathing through the keyhole must take his chances of being shot in the head.

The Lone Jack Recorder charges us with killing thirty-eight men since we established the Kicker and asks why we are permitted to live on and swagger around. In the first place, as the Recorder man could easily have ascertained, the number of men we have had to lay away in self defense is only fourteen, and in the next we are permitted to live on because no one cares to undertake the job of disposing of us.

Editor Joseph Brayton of the Pine Hill Banner called us a liar over the telephone the other day. We shall ride over to Pine Hill some day next week, and we'll bet $10 to a cent that Editor Joseph Brayton can't be found within five miles of his office as long as we stay in town.

ELECTRICITY AID IN ELOPEMENT

Sweetheart of Girl of 15 Folds Papa by Cutting Off Lights.

Pittsburg, Aug. 3.—His knowledge of electricity enabled Joseph Hulbert, Jr., aged 22, to carry off successfully his elopement with 15-year-old Ethel Upperman of Sharpsburg. Hulbert is employed in the electric light plant of the borough of Etina, which supplies Sharpsburg with light. When all was ready for the elopement Hulbert moved a lever and cut off all the lights in the vicinity of his sweetheart's home. This was the signal for the girl, who raised a window and leaped into her sweetheart's arms as soon as he appeared. The father was awakened, but the darkness was so intense he could see nothing.

COMPROMISES TIMBER CLAIMS

State of Minnesota Agrees to Accept $47,000 for Alleged Trespass.

St. Paul, Minn., Aug. 3.—A conditional settlement of timber trespass cases, amounting to $75,000 on the face of the state's claims has been effected. Treble damages were demanded from the Shevlin-Carpenter company, Bonness & Howe and the C. A. Smith Lumber company. The board agreed to accept double damages, amounting to $47,000, and drop the suits, providing the next legislature affirms the action by passing curative acts.

ASSETS SHOW DEFLATION

Face Value of Resources of Failed Bank Decrease 50 Per Cent.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 3.—The report of George P. Keating and George R. Teller, appraisers of the defunct German bank, appointed by State Superintendent Kilbourne, have filed their report. It shows that though the face value of the bank assets was $6,789,175, their actual value as estimated by the appraisers is about $3,390,707. The face value of demand notes was $1,252,324; actual value, $309,973. Time notes total $3,077,468, appraised value, $3,227,928.

Every Heart-Ache

Every pain in the breast, difficult breathing, palpitation, fluttering or dizzy spell means that your heart is straining itself in its effort to keep in motion. This is dangerous.

Some sudden strain from over-exertion or excitement will completely exhaust the nerves, or rupture the walls or arteries of the heart, and it will stop.

Relieve this terrible strain at once with Dr. Miles' Heart Cure. It invigorates and strengthens the heart nerves and muscles, stimulates the heart action, and relieves the pain and misery.

Take no chances; make your heart strong and vigorous with Dr. Miles' Heart Cure.

"I suffered terribly with heart disease. I have been treated by different physicians for my trouble without result. I went to a physician in Memphis, who claimed that I had dropsy of the heart. He put the pump on me, and in consequence of his medicine he came near making a finish of me. Some time before this a Mr. Young of St. Louis was in our town, in poor condition, and recommended Dr. Miles' Heart Cure to me. I gave it the attention which my condition demanded, and I concluded to try it, and am pleased to say three bottles cured me."

Dr. Miles' Heart Cure is sold by your druggist, who will guarantee that the first bottle will benefit. If it fails he will refund your money.

PEOPLE WE KNOW.

They Are Jamesville People, and What They Say Is of Local Interest.

When an incident like the following occurs right here at home, it is bound to carry weight with our readers. So many strange occurrences go the rounds of the press; are published as facts, people become skeptical. On one subject skepticism is rapidly disappearing. This is due to the actual experience of our citizens, and their public utterances regarding them. The doubter must doubt no more in the face of such evidence as this. The public statement of a reputable citizen living right here at home, one whom you can see every day, leaves no ground for the skeptic to stand on.

Mrs. S. L. Beiden of 64 S. River street says: "During two or three years I suffered most of the time with a terrible dragging down pain in my back just over the kidneys. It was very trying when I was at work and if I did any lifting my bladder became affected causing me considerable annoyance. I also had attacks of headache which seemed like congestion in the top and back of my head. When I read about Doan's Kidney Pills I did not have any too much confidence in them but my daughter got a box at the People's Drug Co.'s store and persuaded me to use them. They took right hold and made a wonderful change in my condition. I hardly realized how bad I was until Doan's Kidney Pills brought me relief from the afflictions."

For sale by all dealers. Price, 50 cents. Foster-McMillan Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for U. S.; also on sale at King's Pharmacy.

Remember the name, Doan's, and take no other.

John Doe X His Mark

A man's mark is his honor. It stands for him and he stands for it. It's the old Saxon way of signifying good intentions.

The right to be protected in the exclusive use of a trade mark has been long recognized by the common law and enforced by the chancery courts of England and this country.

The Government puts its mark on a bond to give it value.

The National Biscuit Company puts its trade mark in red and white on each end of a package of biscuit, crackers and wafers to distinguish these products and to guarantee the quality, and it does.

To more clearly comprehend the real value of this trade mark, try packages of BUTTER THIN BISCUIT and LEMON SNAPS.

Lamps are to be discarded in London and incandescent gas lights will be used for street lighting. The gas lamps will be cheaper and more effective, says Consul Hulstead in a report sent the state department from Birmingham. Recent improvements in incandescent lamps, the consul says, give the public ten times as much light for the same amount of money.

WOOD ALCOHOL IN CHEAP DRINK. The Great East and West Line Across the Entire States of TEXAS and LOUISIANA

Deaths From Delirium Tremens Indicate It Is Sold as Whisky.
 Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 3.—Two deaths from delirium tremens at the house of correction and four cases in which the patients are in danger of death from the same cause have led the local police to believe that wood alcohol is being used in south side saloons, where big bumpers of alleged whisky are sold for 5 cents each. The "dead men" are Daniel Coodnam, 630 Washington street, and Charles D. Knauer, a machinist residing at 624 Center street. The four men whose recovery is doubtful are sailors and dock laborers.

CHAPTER VII.

ONCE out in the open air, Frances Wendworth came again into control of herself, ashamed that for the moment her emotions had overwhelmed her. She had no desire to re-enter Westminster hall even if the doorkeepers would have permitted her, so she wandered slowly back to the inn which was her temporary home. In the evening John Vollins came to see her and offered money, which, she told him, she did not need. He gave some account of Pym's speech and said that the commons had not asked the lords for judgment, which was taken by Stratford and his friends as an indication that they knew the weakness of the evidence and feared the effect of his lordship's speech in his own defense.

The refusal to ask for judgment was regarded as a good omen, and for some days Frances felt the revival of hope, when she could forget the grim figure of John Pym, but the commons speedily disillusioned the Stratford party. A bill of attainder was brought in, and they showed their determination to have the head of the unfortunate earl by act of parliament if not by legal procedure. At last the bill, passing its third reading, was sent up to the house of lords. There were many who said the lords would never assent to it; that the commons should have asked for judgment at the close of the trial; that if they could not hope to have the verdict as they wanted it then it was not likely the lords would allow themselves to be coerced by a side wind now. These predictions were quickly falsified. The lords gave their consent to the bill of attainder, and nothing stood between Stratford and the block but a scrawl from the king's pen.

The lords, it was said by those who defended them, had been covered by the populace. The mob had gathered again and had clamored around the house of peers, crying for justice on Stratford. Now they transferred their loud threats and exclamations to Whitehall, for success with the nobles foreshadowed success with the king.

It was late on Saturday night when John Vollins made his way to the inn at some jeopardy to himself, for the streets were wild with joy at the action of the lords. He told Frances that her father's life depended solely on the dimness of the king. If Charles signed on Monday, Stratford was to be led to the block on Wednesday. Vollins was in deep gloom over the prospect. The earl, he said, had some time previously written to the king, absolving him from all his promises, offering his life freely if the taking of it would advantage his majesty in dealing with his obnoxious subjects.

"But the king is truly perjured if he signs. He cannot sign," cried Frances. Vollins shook his head.

"If all the lords in England are held in terror by the people's clamor, and so let the greatest of their number slip through their fingers to the ax, how can one weak man be expected to withstand the concentration of the popular will brought against him? This blind-folly to look for it."

"But the people dare not coerce a king."

"Dare they not? Go down to Whitehall and you will find them doing it. This very day they have all but stormed the palace."

"I will see the king, throw myself at his feet and implore him to keep his word. I was present when he bade my father take this fateful journey to London and when he promised full protection. A king's word should stand against the world, for he is the source of truth and honor in a nation."

"You cannot get to see him. Every entrance to the palace is strongly guarded. Highly placed friends of my lord, friends when all others had fallen away from him, have sought admission to the royal presence in vain. He has refused to see the Earl of Bristol, whose son, Lord Digby, spoke out against the conclusiveness of the evidence, and his majesty has let it be spread abroad that he gives no approval of Lord Digby's plain words, and so the people cry 'God save the king!' and revile Lord Digby."

The girl stood against this intelligence, remembering the scene at the trial, when royalty in the person of Charles Stuart, and the people in the person of John Pym, opposed their will to each other. Then royalty had faded from the sight of men, and the strong champion of the people held his ground alone and triumphant. "Trust in God and the king," wrote the prisoner. What a conjunction! Almighty power, and a beaming word! "Nevertheless, I will see the king," she said.

On Sunday the immensity of the swaying crowd, shouting and moving like a slow resistless flood through the streets, daunted her. There was no employment that day to keep any one within doors, and it seemed as if that labyrinth of human warrens called London had emptied itself into the narrow thoroughfares. She hesitated like a timid swimmer on the brink of a raging torrent, yet if she was to win access to the king she must trust her wits to the current, which had this advantage—it set toward the direction in which she wished to go.

mysterious tides, but making no progress. Why through it in any given direction might well seem an impossibility, but an alert aim, by constantly watching opportunity, could edge here and there, through chance openings, and, by a constant devotion to a given direction, ultimately attain any chosen point.

Thus the girl, buffeted about, often well nigh exhausted and breathless, came by the entrance to the palace that stood next the banquetting house. The gates, however, were tightly closed and guarded on the outside by a double row of soldiers who stood the hustling of the mob with great good humor, being evidently cautioned not to exasperate the populace by any hostile act. The crowd itself seemed good natured enough, although constant lighting took place here and there along its choking surface, but the great bulk of those present appeared to be out on a larking holiday, although they all riotously lent breath to the unceasing roar, calling for justice on Stratford. Occasionally there were shouts for the king and demands that he should speak to them, but the windows of Whitehall palace were blank and gave no sign of human occupancy.

"NO, NO," GASPED CHARLES.

Suddenly Frances found herself in new danger through one of those unexplainable heaves of the many-throated beast at whose mercy she stood.

"To the gates!" went up a shout. "We will make the king hear." And a great human wave, overwhelming the soldiers, struck against the shuddering portal. The mere pressure of the multitude was deadly and irresistible. There were shrieks and appeals for mercy, but the unreasoning mass behind pressed on, unheeding, cheering and shouting. A crash of rending timbers and the gates flew inward. Then the mob, as if frightened at what it had done, paused, giving the soldiers time to collect themselves and help the wounded. There was as yet no malice in the crush; it was more like a conglomeration of irresponsible children bent on mischief of any kind, but temporarily scared at the breaking of something.

This fact seemed to be recognized by a man in authority who came through the gate and with some difficulty secured a precarious footing on one of the stone pillars which stood in a row between the pathway and the road, thus giving him a position which towered over the heads of the assemblage. He held up a hand for a hearing, and the crowd cheered him, not in the least knowing who he was or why he was there. Comparative silence followed the cheer, and the nobleman spoke.

"My good people," he said, "there is little use in the breaking of gates that the king may hear you, for the king has heard and is taking the requests of his faithful subjects into his august consideration."

"Where is the king?" demanded an auditor.

"His majesty is in the banquetting house, where, as you know, he is in touch with his people. This is a perilous subject he has to meditate on, and I beg of you not to disturb his devotion by further—"

"Is the queen at her devotions too? In that hall she began masked revels on a Sunday, and six good men were done to death for protesting against the desecration, each life more valuable than the wicked earl's. Let the king say that he will sign, and we will disperse!"

These and other cries more or less to the purpose hailed the orator, and the air quivered with denunciations of Stratford. The man on the stone post had cast his eyes behind him several times, as if to see what progress was being made with the dismantling of the gate, and from this his heaving quickly divined that he was but deluding them to gain time, which was more than likely his purpose, so the shout went up to move through the breach and surround the hall. Meanwhile reinforcements had been summoned from within, and a hand to hand fight ensued with the encroachers.

Frances, panting and high worn out in the struggle, nevertheless saw her opportunity. There were few women in the throng and such as came near them the soldiers sought to protect. She attempted appeal to the officer, but that harassed dignity could hardly be effectually through the opening, saying: "You will find egress at one of the other gates. Take care of yourself. I cannot help you."

Breathing a sigh of thankfulness, she covered and ran along the end of the banquetting hall, turned at the corner, then down the side, entering an archway that let her into a passage. She knew that she must turn to her right, but where after that she had not the slightest notion. The tumult at the gate was so frightful that she expected every moment to hear the victorious assaults at her heels. Her joy at finding herself thus unexpectedly within the precincts of the palace, unimpeded, caused her to overlook the fact that this was scarcely a propitious moment in which to implore the king to disregard the losty giant rudely beating at his doors. A frightened waiting maid came hurrying along the corridor, and to her she directed inquiry regarding the entrance to the banquetting hall.

"Turn to the right and up the stair," "Take me there, I beg of you," "I cannot. I bear a message," "But I bear a message to the king, so you must wait."

At this the maid turned and conducted her to the door of the hall, saying:

STATE OF WISCONSIN, IN THE CIRCUIT COURT FOR ROCK COUNTY.

In the matter of the petition of Rock County Telephone Company to take, according to law, for telephone purposes, rights, easements and interests in lands in block 44, original plat of Janesville, Rock County, Wisconsin.

On reading the petition of the Rock County Telephone Company, in the above entitled matter, and it appearing that said petition was filed in the office of the clerk of the Circuit Court for Rock County, Wisconsin, on the 25th day of July, 1935;

And it further appearing that said petitioner is a corporation duly organized under the laws of the State of Wisconsin, for the purpose of conducting telephone business, the construction, erection, maintenance and operation of telephones, telephone lines and exchanges, and to furnish telephonic communication to the public within the State of Wisconsin, and especially within the County of Rock and City of Janesville in said State;

That said petitioner is now and has been since its organization engaged in operating and maintaining a telephone exchange and telephone lines and in furnishing the public with telephonic communication throughout the City of Janesville and other portions of Rock County in said State;

That said petitioner desires to acquire, and makes said petition for the purpose of acquiring and taking according to the statute in such case made and provided, the right, interest and easement to maintain and operate the telephone cables in conduits beneath the surface of the ground, with such additional cables and conduits as may be from time to time placed on such lines, and of replacing the conduits from time to time as may be necessary, within a strip of land three (3) feet wide along and within portions of an alley extending from East Milwaukee street to Court street in block forty-four (44), original plat of Janesville, Rock County, Wisconsin, across certain real property within the limits of said alley in said block, all more particularly described in said petition, now on file in the office of the clerk of the Circuit Court for said Rock County, subject to the right of the owners, and of others to whom said owners have granted, or may grant or give such right to use said strip above ground, a portion of an alley or way, and subject also to the right of said owners and others to maintain such sewers across said strip to Rock River as are now laid therein.

That said petitioner's wires have been constructed within said strip above described across each of the pieces of real property in said petition mentioned by running wires and cables in underground conduits; that said petitioner has been unable to acquire the right, easement and interest above mentioned in said real property by purchase or agreement with the owners thereof; that said petitioner intends in good faith to use said real property for telephone business and that it is required for its use for said telephone business; that none of the owners or persons interested in said lands are of unsound mind or under age, and praying that it may be decreed that said petitioner is entitled to take the rights, easements and interests sought to be acquired in the lands described in said petition for said purposes, and that commissioners of appraisal be appointed according to law to ascertain and appraise the just compensation of those interested in said real property, and that the time and place of the first meeting of said commissioners be fixed.

NOW, THEREFORE, on motion of Francis C. Grant, attorney for said petitioner, it is ordered that said petition be heard before the Judge of said Court, at the Court House in the City of Janesville, Rock County, Wisconsin, on the 21st day of August, 1935, at ten (10) o'clock in the forenoon of that day, or as soon thereafter as counsel can be heard.

That this order be served upon the owners and any occupant, and all persons interested in said lands by publication of a copy thereof in the Janesville Daily Gazette, a newspaper published in the City of Janesville, Rock County, Wisconsin, once, each day for ten successive days, the first publication to be at least ten days before such hearing.

Dated 26th day of July, 1935.

By the Court,
B. P. DUNWIDDIE,
Circuit Judge.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Aug. 3.—An elaborate display of fireworks, participated in jointly by Canadians and Americans Wednesday night concluded the first day of the exercises in celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the opening of the Sault Ste. Marie ship canal. The Canadian government contributed liberally to the exhibition, and Canadians showed great enthusiasm.

Hundreds of persons lined both sides of the river to witness the American and the Canadian displays. Both Canadians and Americans gave three cheers as a mammoth pyrotechnic portrait of King Edward was shown.

Previously to the fireworks display, Gov. Warner of Michigan received, in the government park, Vice-President Fairbanks, who took part in the exercises.

Vessels in Parade.

The principal events of the day were an impressive parade of government and other vessels up St. Mary's river through the Canadian locks and a military procession. Large crowds lined the walls of the Canadian and the American locks after a dozen boats had entered at one time, and incidentally, gave Vice-President Fairbanks aboard the revenue cutter Tuscarora, an enthusiastic welcome. Scores of steamers joined in the demonstration.

The semi-centennial celebration and the erection later of a monument as a permanent memorial was made possible by the appropriation of $10,000 by the United States and $15,000 by the state of Michigan, and the contribution of a considerable amount by the vessel interests of the great lakes.

History of the Canal.

The Sault Ste. Marie ship canal was completed by the state of Michigan in 1855. It was transferred to the United States in 1870. Since the government took charge vast improvements have been undertaken, the canal having been widened and deepened several times. It is now considered the busiest of the world's artificial waterways.

In 1888 the lock erected by the state was destroyed by excavation for the present Poe lock, which is the largest in the world. It is 900 feet long and 100 feet wide, with a water depth of twenty-two feet on the sill.

Lock is 515 Feet Long.

The Weltzel lock, which was made necessary by the increased traffic, is 515 feet long. The traffic by way of the Soo canals—American and Canadian—during 1904 was 32,000,000 net tons, 27,000,000 of which was through the American canal. The traffic of the Suez canal in 1904 was 12,000,000 net tons. This represented a large part of the commerce of Europe with Asia and some of that between the United States and Asia.

The Soo canal has developed the vast mineral wealth of the Lake Superior region, and has furnished a cheap and convenient outlet for the transportation of grain, flour and other products.

Another lock must be built and the ship canal above the locks must be widened because of the great development of the ore and grain traffic of the northwest.

News for the Railroad Men.

New York, August 3.—All records in the use of steel rails in the building of railroads will be broken this year. This fact is assured, even though there are four months before the close of the year. It is estimated that the railroads of the country will consume over 2,100,000 tons of steel rails before the end of next December. With the export orders, the total rail production in 1905 will be not less than 2,600,000 tons.

It is understood that the Ohio river division of the passenger operations of the Baltimore & Ohio railroad will likely be extended into Pittsburgh over the Wheeling branch of the system within a short time. They have been over the Panhandle since a traffic arrangement was entered into by the former Ohio River and the Pennsylvania lines west several years ago, or prior to the Baltimore & Ohio absorbing the Ohio River.

In order to meet the demand for Panama canal work, the owners of a cement plant at Mitchell, Ind., will spend $1,000,000 in doubling its capacity and making the daily output 5,000 barrels. The Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern in order to provide facilities for transporting half of this amount to tide-water will at a cost of $1,000,000 build requisite truckage yards, etc.

Announcement is made by the Rock Island that the winter tourist rates from Eastern points to Denver that were in vogue last winter will be resumed on September 1 and the rates from all points on the Rock Island will be the same as they were last winter.

It is said that as a result of differences with the Southern Pacific, the San Pedro will build a position branch line to every place of importance in southern California, and is already planning to build its own line from Riverside to Redlands and San Bernardino.

The Pennsylvania has just issued strict orders that hereafter the water supply for passenger cars must be handled by men wearing white gloves and white duck overalls, which must at all times be clean. The object is to insure the patrons of the road water that is free from contamination.

It has been reported, and there is good authority for the rumor, that the Lake Shore will equip its line from Detroit, Mich., to Toledo, Ohio, with electricity, and as soon as the necessary plant can be installed will begin the operation of freight trains over that division with the new motive power.

By September, the Illinois Central Railroad, of which Stuyvesant Fish is president, expects to have export docks and wharves at New Orleans available, which the management expects will be without a superior in the United States.

It is rumored that Hill interests predominated in the Kansas City Southern and that the road will figure in an important way in the Great Northern extension to the gulf. The return of Herman Slicker from Europe, it is said, will be followed by publicity as to the plans.

Preliminary steps have been taken for the prosecution by the state attorney of Illinois of some railroad—said to be the Allen—for gross violation of law by fictitious issue of stocks and bonds. The court will be asked to deprive the company of its charter. The proceedings will not be pushed until September.
